

Abstract of the Invention

The invention is a method and apparatus for delivering targeted Internet-based advertising for insertion into advertisement portions of an electronic program guide display for television.